Not Ending Strike Order CIO Packers To Return to Jobs

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—(AP)—A union official who declined use of his name said the CIO United Packinghouse Workers leadership is ordering 193,000 striking members to return to work Monday but is not calling off their strike in the meat industry.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Most of the meat packing plants of the United States, strikebound for 10 days, were operated by the federal government today but insufficient manpower, because of refusal of 193,000 CIO strikers to return to work, indicated no immediate resumption of normal operations.

THE GOVERNMENTS next move in getting the CIO strikers off the picket lines and back into the federally-managed plants to help bring fresh meat supplies to American dinner tables, was not immediately disclosed.

The union held to its decision not to order its workers into the plants because it said President Truman's seizure order failed to specify wage increases for the strikers. The American Federation of Labor union, whose 35,000 members had walked out in the wage dispute with packers, is expected to go back to work today. AFL Continued on Page 2, Col. 7

Canada.

This is something of which Edmonton's fire brigade can well be proud, and which will bring keen satisfaction to the citizens at large. No fire protection system is or can be perfect, but the Edmonton fire brigade is among the best in the west and the best in Canada is highly gratifying.

Edmonton has been highly successful in the past when it came to buying up-to-date equipment for its fire department. That has been sound policy, as its present standing shows. The award of the judges is to confirm the taxpayers in the belief that this is one service in which efficiency is cheap at any necessary cost.

Some time this year Edmonton's
fire-fighters will go on a three-shift basis,
extending to them the nine-hour day which is common in other occupations. Some time ago the voters approved this change at a plebiscite. The place given the city in this competitive comparison with other cities in the Dominion is evidence that the shorter day is well deserved.

Ontario Led The Way

Attorney-General Blackwell tried his hand the other day at explaining why Premier Drew won't accept the Dominion proposals for a new corporation tax in Saskatchewan, he said, is going in for socialization of industry, and the socialized industries won't pay any corporation taxes. Hence, for some not very well defined reason, Ontario will have nothing to do with the federal plan.

Well, what previous was it that started this socializing business? None other than the province of Ontario. It began when the Conservative Government of Premier Whitney launched his socialization scheme, with Sir Adam Beck as god-father.

That now gigantic enterprise, which generates electricity and distributes it all over the province, was a corporation tax.
It hasn't paid a dollar, not a dollar,
to the Dominion treasury through all the years, when every private corporation in the country was handing over something up to 95 per cent of its surplus earnings.

During those same years the power companies in Quebec were paying $15-$20,000 worth of taxes to the Dominion.
Attorney-General Blackwell might better have left Ontario's case to rest on the $20,000 worth of taxes paid by Quebec.
His explanatory activities result only in ing out that if Saskatchewan is dodging corporation taxes by its socializing program, the province of Ontario is dodging taxes and stands as the most successful dodger
among the whole nine provinces.

Politics and Universities

The organized student body of the University of British Columbia has rejected some very valuable business and political clubs and has granted the right to establish clubs and take up activities on the campus.

Since a decision in this matter will have to be taken sooner or later by other Canadian universities, including the University of Alberta, the soundness of this particular decision calls for warm commendation.
It is, of course, absurd that university
students should stand scornfully aloof from political thinking. There is no such thing as academic sanctuary from the realities of life. And the government of a country is exceedingly real just as its methods and practices are exceedingly important.

It is a nasty bit of scholastic hypocrisy,
then, to assume that the science of government is too degraded to business to merit the attention of keen and enquiring young minds. Indeed, the only way to raise the level of intellectual and moral status of politics is to make it interesting to unprejudiced and unbiased minds.

But while all this may be true, it is still an unwholesome business to turn party organizations loose in Canadian universities, because the party approach is de-terminely the improper method to the study of politics as a vital science.

One remembers with keen distaste the degrading use of university students by all the fanatic parties across Europe.
Every account of political violence used to be accompanied by a notation of "student riots."

One remembers how even in Britain the student bodies of even the staidest universities were employed to advance political bigotry of the most explosive kind.
Students cannot pursue the tranquil study of politics in the most profitable way while they are being made the catspaws of parties.

British Columbia does not wish to bar party activity from her campus. And other universities will do equally well to follow
this example.

Making Bad Worse

To hunger and inflation in Greece has been added the evil of a seemingly wildspread revolt, staged by the monarchists with or without instigation by the abso-lutist. British forces are apparently standing "by" the government, with the government in the interest of order, according to the premier, but taking no part in the action war.

Greece provides an extreme example of a kind of folly that is too prevalent in the world for the prospect of quick recovery to be as bright as it could and should be.
The people could be employing themselves in producing food, in making things that trade for food, and in restoring the wreckage of a wasted country. Instead, they are fritting away time and energies in factional strife.

In less spectacular and less dangerous factions, the same thing is being done in a good many countries. Everywhere there is need that people set themselves patiently and resolutely to the task of repairing war damages, overcoming scarcities by sustained production, meeting and solving
the new problems which confront them.
But, as in Greece, time and energy are being wasted in class struggles and doctrinaire ideological feuds.

There is no doubt about the general
world recovery, but it is being retarded.
Necessaries of life are being kept scarcer than they were seven years ago. Antagonis-ms are being created which only time can cure. The prospect of a better world is being added the cost of delay in getting constructive and reconstructive forces into full swing. The world is poor enough.
Why make it poorer?

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board says the price of sugar in Canada will not go up. Unfortunately, there is no prospect either that the sugar will go up.

An Argentine general has resigned a federal command in order to fight a duel with an admiral who said he took money to assist in the election campaign
last fall. The resignation is that the truth or falsity of the charge will be shown by the demonstration as to whether the general or the admiral is the better shot. The general is also implied to have rather a pistol than an infirmity.

General MacArthur proposes an international court of world recovery. He is reportedly accused of committing war crimes.
This substitution of an international court
for the American courts hitherto hearing such charges, despite the fact that the decision to set up a joint control court to direct occupation policy in Japan. There is nothing the change to encourage the war criminals to think they will get off
with less than they deserve.

Special bride-ships are to start sailing from Britain early next month. It is expected that about a month later all the British wives of Canadian soldiers will have reached Canada, with their children.
With their arrival the demand for living quarters will become more keen in every Canadian city. That is the very practical point which officials of the War Relocated should take into account before the rush starts.

South American Governments Have Made—

Lotteries Big Business

At Least 25,000,000 Latin-Americans From Mexico to Chile Buy Tickets Once and Sometimes Twice Weekly and Drawings Are Gala Affairs

South America's west coast republics. Ancient cruises, the blind and deformed, and barefoot kids, whose parents cannot be imagined up to the tip of Chile, buy at least one weekly and generally twice on fiestas, saints' days, and special occasions. Anywhere from 60 to 10 per cent of the people will be sold as prizes. From five to 10 per cent will be utilized for health and education. The rest is for the lottery. Mexico even has a paralyzed cripple who rides, papoose fashion, on a runner's back, hand to pick up the pesos and hand over the tickets. In Venezuela, where there are no railways, the early dawn, the theory being that the crowd will be larger, long lines of people, some with long poles, are used to prevent any palming off tickets. They will not be allowed to leave the lotto number and will hustle out to a certain number.

Each vendor calls to impart a special good luck premium at the time of purchase. The power does not extend to their own earnings, which are pitifully small. They buy their supply of tickets in the morning, and the prizes are drawn in the afternoon. In Venezuela, where there are no railways, the early dawn, the theory being that the crowd will be larger, long lines of people, some with long poles, are used to prevent any palming off tickets. They will not be allowed to leave the lotto number and will hustle out to a certain number.

North Towns Hit By Severe Snows

FORT ASSINIBOINE.—Between 10 and 12 inches of snow early this week blocked main and side roads throughout the community. A snowstorm, operated between here and Banff, resulted in the roads being closed for a day or two.

North roads are still in poor condition. It took at one time almost an entire day to travel from Fort Assiniboin to a few hours. School attendance is poor as a result of the roads.

August Hendrickson, who carries mail from the Fort post office to Deris and Timons, was caught through to either point for the first time in a long career.

WESTLOCK.—Roads in this district are still showing the effects of a storm early this week. Side roads are passable only to team or tractor. UNITED NATIONS' CAPITALS

Nothing To Buy --- Nothing to Sell

Here is a fascinating and educational puzzle game, in which you can truly qualify for a prize. The puzzle is absolutely nothing to buy—costs nothing to win.

Below are given the names of 30 United Nations Capital Cities. Each of the letters used to form the names of these 30 cities has a certain value in points—as shown in the letter-value chart. The object of the puzzle game is to fill in, as on an ordinary crossword puzzle—the names of 15 United Nations Capitals, whose combined letters will total up to the highest possible point value.

The ROAD AHEAD

by Capt. HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

A new policy permitting veterans who wish to go farming under the Veterans' Land Act scheme, but who have been held up due to the fact that their wives are still in Europe, is now in effect across Canada. This new scheme offers a reasonable solution to this problem which has been causing great concern not only to the directors of the V.L.A. and the veterans themselves, but to all those interested in the rehabilitation of returned men.

Gland Wife Must Become Re-Acquainted Again

One of the Unexpected Tragedies of the War Is the Disappointment That So Many Husbands and Wives Have Experienced in Their Reunion

One of the unexpected tragedies of the war is the disappointment that so many husbands and wives have experienced in their reunion. Through all the long, bleak days of loneliness and anxiety while they were parted, being back together was the one thing they had looked forward to, that they had dreamed about and prayed for. It was to have been the one perfect moment in their lives, when all the pent-up love and longing of their souls would burst their dams and flood their world with joy.

BUT IN SO MANY cases Johnny's return from the war has been like that. After the first excitement of being at home again everything has fallen flat. Nothing has been like either the husband or the wife pictured it. There has not been the reunion of lovers. It has been the meeting of strangers who are awkward and shy with each other and who feel that there is a wall between them that they do not know how to break down.

Among all the pathetic letters that come to this column none are so sad as those written by wives who are hurt and bewildered by Minute Make-Ups

PERHAPS the main reason why husbands and wives have found it hard to adjust themselves to each other after the war is because when they were separated each idealized the other and created a man and woman with virtues that are not of this world, and set them against a background of luxuries and beauty. To every woman her soldier husband was a handsome and gallant as any knight of old, and to every man his wife was a combination of Miss America and a blue ribbon chef, and his home a palace to dream about.

And when he came back and found that Maria had gotten fat and Maria discovered that the war hadn't changed Johnny's looks or sweetened his disposition, and that the little bungalow was still a little dingy, why, they just couldn't take it.

But happily, if human nature is catenarian, as it is, it is adaptable. And if Johnny and Maria, instead of getting a divorce, they will adjust themselves to each other's new personalities and looks, and learn to like them, and believe that the old bungalow is a mighty comfortable place to live in after all.

When you do your most glamorous hair style preserve its beauty during that ride to the party. Take one yard of sheer veiling in a bright shade—pin it in loops in your hair. Let it just cover your eyes. And pin it with a jeweled pin in the back.

Memorized originated in New York City, being found there by Joseph Smith.

FATS AND OILS GOOD IN OLD WIVES

Fats are similar to carbohydrates in that they are widely distributed in natural foods. They are composed of carbon, hydrogen and oxygen. Of all forms of food, fats are the most concentrated. It appears that some fat must be present in the diet if good health is to be maintained.

The amount of fat generally consumed varies with different climates, races, occupations and economic factors. For example, the Eskimo, who live in a very cold climate, eat a diet which probably uses more fat than a person doing manual work in a warm climate. One of the very interesting things to observe is that the amount of fat used bears a direct relationship to income: With an increase in the family income the use of fat also increases.

It has been found that the body is capable of adapting itself to the omission of fat during short periods without any harm, but if deprived of fat for months or years, it is unable to do so. It is possible due to the fact that vitamins A and D are commonly secured from fat-bearing foods.

Fat is easily assimilated and absorbed almost as it is taken from the caloric standpoint, fat is considered to have double the caloric value of protein. It is used in the body for the liberation of energy. Fat is also used in the body to insulate the body and to store heat. For this reason, it is beneficial to increase the fat ration under two conditions: When energy is being rapidly used up because of increased activity, and when the body is exposed to extreme cold.

Fats are therefore of great value in cold climates and it is customary to find that the Northern races use a great deal of fat. The fact that the fat ration is low in cold climates would do much to increase the fat consumption during the winter months. In a warm climate, such an increase is not of much value, except in the case of those doing heavy labor, in which instance the burning of fat will provide energy.

Animal fats, such as butter, eggs, cream and beef, and also cod liver oil, provide good sources of vitamins A and D. The fats used for food come from both the animal and vegetable sources. A list of the wholesome fats and oils include all of the following: butter, cream, margarine, olive oil, peanut oil, cottonseed oil, corn oil, cod liver oil, and vegetable oil.

Those using fat cuts of beef or pork will also secure an additional amount of fat. Or, fat may be secured from milk, avocados, olives, ice cream, lard, salmon and cod.

Fats which are liquid at ordinary temperatures are called oils or fatty oils, while if they are in a solid or semi-solid state at which temperatures they are referred to as fats. All questions regarding health and diet will be answered by mail. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address: Dr. J. H. McClay, Health Service, 131 West 8th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Points for Parents

By EYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Not This This

Mothers: It's easier for me to give the baby his bath than it is to be there in bed, even if I do have a headache. For I keep thinking of all the things I know you're doing wrong.

Father: You'll have fun bathing him. Just make sure the water isn't too hot or too cold and you'll be sure he's clean. You can keep washing his hair and cleaning his nose today.

Having everything done for baby in exactly the same way is not nearly so important as giving father a chance to really know his child by sharing in his care.

Why Grow Old?

Some of the greens and vegetables Aeneas Jane Harker is eating are rich in vitamin B. Being sure your diet is properly balanced will give you optimum health.

FOR THE PAST few days I have been reporting some of the national surveys which have attempted to obtain information concerning the adequacy of the national diet in the United States. The war, with its demand of top efficiency and optimum energy, has given the interest in nutrition a big boost, and in doing so, we know more and more about the body's requirements.

The surveys which have already been conducted indicate that several things clearly stand out. It is the diet that the greatest deficiency evidenced in the national diet is the lack of vitamin B. This is the vitamin that children are most deficient in. It is the vitamin that is most deficient in the diet of the adult.

Your Baby And Mine

MEASURE THE UTENSILS: water, pitcher, strainer, measuring cup or beaker, spoon, etc.

MEASURE THE WATER: water, pitcher, strainer, measuring cup or beaker, spoon, etc.

RINSE OFF THE fresh bottle of soap. Let the suds run down the drain. Then rinse the bottle with cold water and pour it into the suds pan. Add this to the water and sugar in the suds pan and put on the stove and bring to a quick boil, stirring constantly. Boil it just one minute after it comes to a boil.

STRAIN INTO A pitcher and then add the formula into as many clean, white, enamel bottles as there are feedings in twenty-four hours.

STOPPER THE BOTTLES with clean caps, dips of absorbent cotton, rubbers or nipples made for the purpose. Clean the caps and phone kept in place with rubber bands.

PUT THE BOTTLES in a large kettle of cold water and let cold water run over until the milk is chilled. Then store them in the ice box to be left there until the baby is ready to be fed.

AT FEEDING TIME use a regulation bottle-warmer or put a small deep pan with boiling water and stand the bottle in it on a piece of wood. Bring to a boil, shake the bottle, test it on the inner arm and give that hungry baby his bottle.

Our latest No. 22, "Formula for the purpose of feeding," is being sent by a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request: to Myrtle Meyer Elder, care of this newspaper.

Since VITAMIN B seems to be a diet element in our diet it might be helpful to review some of the richest sources. If you consume a plenty of milk, fresh fruits and vegetables, green salads, and eggs, you will obtain a fair amount of vitamin B. But probably not enough for the dietaries of optimum health.

The richest sources of vitamin B are brewer's yeast, whole grain cereals, and eggs. The richest sources of vitamin B are brewer's yeast, whole grain cereals, and eggs.

SUPERMAN

AND

SCIENTISTS THE WORLD OVER ARE WORKING TO HARNESS ATOMIC ENERGY TO DO THE WORK OF MAN. ONE OF THESE SCIENTISTS, PROF. VERN, SUCCEEDS IN HIS EXPERIMENT TO SUCH AN EXTENT THAT—IN THIS NEW SUPERMAN ADVENTURE—HE TAKES LOIS LANE—AND YOU "OUT OF THIS WORLD" ...

326

AN IMPRACTICAL DREAMER, AND A WOMAN! YOU NEED ANOTHER MAN—A RESOURCEFUL ONE—ON SUCH A DANGEROUS EXPEDITION.

LET CLARK GO, THEN.

SORRY, BUT I'VE ALREADY MADE ARRANGEMENTS TO TAKE MY VACATION.

IF YOU ASK ME—I THINK YOU'RE AFRAID TO GO!

YOU'RE ENTITLED TO YOUR OPINION, LOIS.

SEVERAL DAYS LATER—

I'VE MORE CONFIDENCE IN YOUR EXPEDITION SINCE MEETING YOU, PROF. VERN!

THANK YOU, SIR. AND NOW, MISS LANE, I THINK WE'D BETTER GET STARTED.

STRAP YOURSELF IN CAREFULLY, MISS LANE. THE LAUNCHING IMPACT WILL BE RATHER HEAVY.

I'M ALL SET, PROFESSOR—AND MORE EXCITED THAN I'VE EVER BEEN IN MY LIFE!

AN INVENTION

FOR several days the Dunces had been very mysterious. He spent as much time as he could in the coffee can which the Teenie Weenies used for a workshop. He would lock the tiny door and put paper over the windows so none of the Teenie Weenies could see what he was doing. When the little men asked questions the Dunces would simply smile in a superior way and tell them to wait.

One morning the Dunce took the Turk and Gogo aside and asked them to help him. "I have invented a great invention," he told the two Teenie Weenies, "and I need your help."

Gogo and the Turk promised to help and the Dunce led them to a big house near the Teenie Weenie village. The people who lived in the house were away and the Dunce led the Turk and Gogo to the bathroom. The three Teenie Weenies climbed up to the top of the washstand and, pointing to a leaky faucet, the Dunce said, "I need a lot of water for my invention and I want you to help me get the stopper in the basin so it will be filled when I'm ready for my

The three Teenie Weenies finally managed to get the stopper in place and the bowl began to fill with water. "Now," said the Dunce, "it will take about three hours for the bowl to drip full of water and then I want you to bring all the Teenie Weenies here, for I have something very important to show them."

The Turk and Gogo carried the invitation to the Teenie Weenie village and at the proper time the little folks put on their tiny ear tabs and mittens and set off for the bathroom. They found the Dunce waiting for them and when they had climbed up to the washbowl the Dunce said, "Ladies and gentlemen, I have perfected a very great invention. I shall now show you how to walk on water."

The Duncie brought out a couple of small corks and tied them to his feet.

"Why not try your invention in water that is not so deep?" asked the General. "You tried to walk on water once before and you nearly drowned."

"It will be different this time," the Dunces answered in a superior way. "I have set a BB shot in the bottom of each cork and that will keep it down in the water. It's absolutely safe."

The Dunces let himself down into the water and started to walk. He immediately fell over and the corks popped to the surface of the water. His body went under and he would have drowned if the Sailor hadn't saved him. Now the Dunces has given up inventing and he does all his walking on solid ground.
